SENATOR JAMES IN GREAT SPEECH

Expounds the Doctrine Of Democracy.

GODD WORD FOR BEN JOHNSON

Also Upholds Wilson's Presidential Policies and Acts Of Democratic Congress.

A LARGE CROWD WAS PRESENT

"Behold this nation at peace—millions of toilers and happy homes with the family circle unbroken. When all of the turmoil and tribulation of this earth is over, and when we stand in the great white light of the judgment dawn, there will stand Woodrow Wilson with clean hands and a clear conscience, and the Master will say unto him: 'Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall inherit the Kingdom of Heaven.'"—[Ollie James.]

A steady rain fell throughout the greater portion of Ohio and adjoining counties last Wednesday and most of the night and consequently there was not as large a crowd at the speaking of Senator Ollie James here Thursday as would have been had the weather not been so inclement. There was also a slight confusion as to the exact time Mr. James would begin to talk which was a little disappointing to some few people. After Senator James' date was given to the local committee, the State Speakers Program Committee made a date for him at Louisville Thursday night, which necessitated the beginning of his speaking a full half hour before the time set, in order for the Senator to get to Beaver Dam in time to catch a train into Louisville.

The large court room was pretty well filled when Senator James began speaking, but by the time he was half through the house was crowded and many were standing at the entrance. Senator James was introduced by Hon. H. P. Taylor with a few timely and well chosen remarks. The Senator's time was limited and he spoke only a little over an hour.

Senator James said he well remembers other days when he was here and the hearty welcome he received from loyal Ohio county people. The first part of his speech was devoted to a well deserved eulogy of Congressman Ben Johnson. He said if the people here knew Mr. Johnson as he knows him they would know more perfectly the splendid duty our Fourth District representative has performed in Congress. The Senator said that of the hundreds of Congressmen of his acquaintance, past and present, Mr. Johnson is one of the ablest and best. The record of Congressman Johnson, said the Senator, stands out boldly for its zeal and fearlessness in the cause of the people. The voters should return Mr. Johnson to Congress by a splendid majority, said Mr. James, adding that he felt personally interested in the success of our very worthy representative.

Senator James then turned his attention to the Presidential race and pointed out the wonderful achievements of Woodrow Wilson, assisted by a Democratic Congress. The Democratic party was formerly accused of being a party of promises, but it has demonstrated that it is a party of achievements. The Republican party promised to revise the tariff downward but failed and Senator Dooliver (Republican) denounced them for it. When the Democratic party undertook a revision of the tariff they found lobbyists everywhere in great numbers to fight for special interests. President Wilson put a special committee on their trail and routed them. An equitable tariff law was enacted by the Democrats. It is an honest tariff, made by honest men for honest and hard working people. Nobody dares assail it. It protects no special interests and equalizes the burden of taxation among the whole people.

The Democrats have also passed an Income Tax law, said Senator James, which takes from the fat boards of the rich that which should go to support government and by its process takes a heavy burden from the working poor. Candidate Hughes has ever been found contending for the interests of the rich as against the welfare of the common people. While Governor of New York Mr. Hughes vetoed the bill that women school teachers should receive the same pay as men. Mr. Hughes as Governor also vetoed the two-cent railroad bill and opposed the Income Tax.

Col. Roosevelt is storming around over the country, said Senator James, in the interest of Candidate Hughes, but the Rough Rider dare not attack the Federal Reserve Act because he was President when the worst panic the country ever knew was sprung by Wall Street interests. Under the old system a nation-wide panic could be sprung overnight, but now it is not possible. The Panic Trust and the Money Trust were annihilated by Democratic legislation. The Republicans now say, "Oh, just wait till the war is over and prosperity will fade away." They used to say "If you ever let the Democratic party get into power we will have no more prosperity." Time and events have changed their tune. For twenty-five years, said Senator James, after the war is over this country will be selling supplies to the Old World to make up for the destruction which this gigantic war has wrought. The conclusion is inevitable. Why should we fear for the war to close?

Candidate Hughes, said Senator James, is the great critic and fault-finder. This type of person has existed since history began. Anybody can criticize and find fault with another's actions or policy. Mr. Hughes has no constructive argument to offer. He does not (he dare not) declare that if elected President he will work to have repealed the great quantity of beneficial legislation enacted by the Democrats.

Here Senator James explained the Rural Credits Act, by which farmers are placed on an equality with big moneyed men and can borrow money on long term and a low rate of interest, liquidating the debt while paying the interest.

The eight-hour-day decision of President Wilson, said Senator James, was not a "surrender to force" but a surrender to reason. President Wilson's war policy has kept us at peace with honor, while prosperity is felt all over the land. People criticized President Lincoln as they have criticized President Wilson. What the first Lincoln of 1861-65 did in Mexico, the second Lincoln (Wilson) is doing now. President Wilson settled the Luitania affair, said Senator James, without wounding a single American wife or orphaning a single American child. President Wilson is accused of being a great "note writer." He is—the best the country ever saw. He sent firm yet diplomatic notes to Germany instead of the priceless lives of thousands of brave American boys. Which is the best policy? President Wilson is a patriot of clear conscience and brave and courageous record. He has had many trials, yet he comes out with honor unblemished.

This is only a brief synopsis of Senator James' splendid address. At times he fired the big audience with his eloquence and applause was hearty and frequent. There were many ladies and young people present and the hundreds of earnest faces and bright eyes turned toward the speaker showed that the crowd drank in and enjoyed every word he said.

RELEASE OF TOBACCO— A KENTUCKY SHIPMENT

Washington, Oct. 21.—Five hundred hogheads of tobacco shipped by Rudolph, Hack & Co., of Clarksville, Tenn., to Copenhagen on the steamer Trafalgar, which was held up by the British Government, have been released to the consignee, according to an official statement received by the State Department today. Other details of the release of the shipment were not contained in the message.

This news may relieve the apprehension of tobacco dealers who thought they had good reason to believe that Great Britain would hold up large tobacco shipments indefinitely unless the shipments were paid for prior to August 4 and shipment started before August 30.

Mrs. William H. Crocker, of San Francisco, withdrew as a member of the women's Hughes campaign party because of charges that the campaigners were millionaires and a dispute that followed.

PARTY LEADERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Men On Stump Sure Of Wilson's Victory.

GLOWING REPORTS ARE SENT

To Summer White House By Men In the Field In Various Sections.

WILSON LANDSLIDE PREDICTED

Washington, Oct. 23.—A communication sent to Washington correspondents to-day from Ashbury Park, N. J., by R. W. Woolley, a former Kentuckian and director of publicity of the Democratic National Committee, gives a synopsis of views as to the progress of the campaign sent in by prominent Democrats who are out speaking in various parts of the country. Summing up these expressions the statement says:

"Evidence of a Democratic landslide are appearing in the tremendous political correspondence which has inundated the officials at the executive offices of the summer White House in Ashbury Park in the past three weeks. The great drive forward by the Democratic phalanx under the bold leadership of President Wilson has carried the national ticket so far past the position it occupied at the beginning of this period that the political observers reporting to the President and his advisers are now convinced victory is a certainty.

"While optimism is not lacking in the reports from the East, it is the data from the West upon which the talk of a landslide is based."

Among the leaders quoted is Senator James, of Kentucky, who, the announcement says, "has made a great many speeches in the West and has had a splendid opportunity to observe conditions."

Senator James wired to Secretary Tumulty as follows:

"Have been speaking through the West. Never saw anything like the tide to Wilson. He is a certain winner. I believe Ohio will give him 100,000 majority. Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois and Indiana are on fire with Wilson enthusiasm. Hughes is defeated; Wilson a certainty."

Congressman Henry T. Rainey, ranking member of the Ways and Means Committee, writes from Illinois:

"The movement in favor of the President is assuming enormous proportions. Just at present it appears to me that we will carry Illinois by a majority that will surprise us."

Ex-Senator Charles A. Towne, who is making a tour of the West, wired from Idaho:

"The trip is wonderfully encouraging. Tell the President there is a nation-wide re-birth."

After quoting many other leaders the statement concludes:

"One opinion appears frequently in the White House correspondence. It is that the eight-hour day issue has turned out to be a terrible boomerang for Republican Candidate Hughes. It is clear he is suffering tremendously from the vitriolic speeches attacking the Adamson law which he made earlier in the campaign. This point is particularly clear in reports from Ohio, where it is evident that the Republicans have lost a State which they at one time were confident of carrying and have lost it mainly because of their reactionary position on the issue of the eight-hour day."

Pitiful Starvation.

New York, Oct. 18.—William Willard Howard, of New York, who has just returned from his third trip through Albania, predicted that the entire population of Albania will die of famine and pestilence unless helped. He said that in Albania corn is $50 a bushel, flour $80 a sack and macaroni $5 a pound.

"While the people of the United States have been sending $30,000,000 worth of relief to Europe and Turkey, 200,000 women and children in Albania have died of starvation," he said.

"While each woman and child in Belgium has had plenty to eat, women and children in Albania have gnawed at the carcasses of horses in the streets."

FARMER IS EQUAL OF MONEYED MAN

Under Operation Of the Reserve Law.

MONEY HOARDING IS STOPPED

And Cornering Of Cash For Speculation Or Gambling Is

EXPLAINS NEW FEDERAL LAW

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 21.—John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, speaking here before the Farmers' National Congress, described the relation of the Federal Reserve Law to the farmer and closed with a personal statement brought out by President Wilson's recent allusion to attacks on the Controller.

"I see that our President, in an address at Shadow Lawn," said the Controller, "tells the country that the bankers, or certain bankers, or some special interests, are after my official scalp because I, as the Controller of the Currency, have enforced the law. This is no surprise to me."

Mr. Williams said the new Federal Reserve Law "will forbid the grasping from using for their own advantage the necessities of their neighbors," and that it puts the farmer on the same plane as the business man.

"The farmer," he said, "is enabled to borrow according to his industry and commercial standing because his banks know how and where to get the money. It will not be possible to have the money supply locked in the great centers for speculation or gambling purposes, while the real producers and legitimate productive commerce are pinched or denied, perhaps just at the time of their most important need."

"Cries of back to the farm," he said, "are futile, without promise of comfort and happiness and prospect."

"Put money, or opportunity to earn it," he said, "on the farms and the people will go to them fast enough and stay with them. This is precisely what the Federal Reserve system is doing in large measure and we hope the rural credits system will do in even larger measure." He told of the decentralization of huge accumulations of money from the few great centers and its transfer to the Federal Reserve banks, "twelve reservoirs from which pipe lines already run to nearly 8,000 banks, available to every reliable farmer, storekeeper or business man."

"God Almighty alone," he said, "knows how many strong men have had strength, hope and power sapped by unfair interest rates, how many promising boys and girls were deprived of opportunity and driven to worthlessness and crime by the same direful, inexorable power."

"This is the first time since the beginning of the national banking system half a century ago," Controller Williams said, "that the farmer has been able to borrow on the security of his farm from any national bank." He added that there had been "a general collapse in interest charges in those sections of the country where the abuse was the greatest and a general disposition by banks in all sections to live within the law."

Banks that had been charging on some loans up to 50 and 60 per cent. are now limiting charges to the rates permitted by their State laws, the Controller said.

SKY THE ONLY LIMIT FOR MOTORLESS PLANE

Poston, Oct. 21.—A motorless monoplane, capable of reaching a height of twelve miles, is the proposition that A. V. Wilson of Bar Harbor, Me., will place before the National Advisory Board of Aviation this month.

Mr. Wilson's aeroplane has been patented, and he has been working for five years to solve the problem of keeping the aviator alive at that height and at a temperature of from 120 to 210 degrees below zero. The desired warmth, he says, can be gained by a solution of one pound of lime and eight ounces of water. This will prevent a hydrogen tank from freezing, he says, and therefore will provide air for the aviator. On calm days, he admits, the plane would have to be shot into the air with a catapult. Once in flight, however, he claims that he can stay in the air indefinitely.

CENTRAL CITY MINES WORKING—TROUBLE OVER

The Central City Argus says: The controversy between the Central Coal & Iron Company and the United Mine Workers of America was adjusted Tuesday night when an agreement satisfactory to both operators and employees was reached and this agreement signed by representatives of the parties directly concerned.

By the terms of the agreement members of the U. M. W. of A. will return to their working places in the mine under the same conditions as existed before the burning of the title of the C. C. & I. Co. on the morning of August 6th.

For several weeks work at the mine has been carried on by members of a recently created body known as the "Southern Miners Association," an organization born in Central City and numbering among its membership some half dozen or more former recognized members of the U. M. W. of A. but who had disavowed further allegiance to this organization, together with a score or more of men picked up from time to time here and there.

By the agreement reached between the operators and officials of the United Mine Workers of America, Tuesday night, following several conferences, it is understood that former members of the U. M. W. of A. who have been working at the mine during the disagreement, will, upon petition, be reinstated as members of the order, while the others may gain admission to the union through the regular channel.

LABOR CALLS WORKERS TO WILSON'S SUPPORT

Washington, Oct. 21.—Organized labor's first official appeal to its membership in behalf of President Wilson's re-election was made public to-day at the American Federation of Labor headquarters. It is in the form of a circular letter to all officers of organized labor, calling on them to hold special meetings if necessary to consider the issues of the campaign, and see to it that wage-earners go to the polls to protect their interests against "Wall street."

The letter is signed by Samuel Gompers, president; James O'Connell, vice president, and Frank Morrison, secretary, as the Federation Labor Representation Committee, and it has been sent to the heads of all affiliated organizations. In reviewing the record of the Administration it praises the President's course in foreign affairs, declaring that without war he has secured all the protection and benefits that would have accrued from a successful war, and asserts that at home the labor movement "has been able to secure recognition for the rights of human beings and opportunity for all to participate in the affairs of the nation in a degree that never before has been accomplished."

"BUFFALO BILL" IS OUT FOR PRESIDENT WILSON

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 23.—The greatest rough rider of them all, "Buffalo Bill" himself, has come out for President Wilson's re-election. Col. Cody is a great admirer of that other eminent Colonel and rough rider, but he cannot unite with Theodore Roosevelt in endorsing Mr. Hughes.

"Buffalo Bill" had always been a Republican until a few years ago, when he lined up with the Progressives. How he stands this year is shown by a characteristic telegram sent by him from Kingston, N. C., to Frank L. Houx, Secretary of State of Wyoming. Col. Cody's announcement reads:

"Hughes can't ride President Wilson. He is pulling leather already and will be disqualified." It is signed "Bill Cody."

RECORD TOBACCO CROP IS RAISED

It Exceeds Any Previous Year's Production

BY FULLY A MILLION POUNDS

Kentucky's Yield Good In Quantity and Quality—Few States Suffer.

BURLEY CROP IS EXTRA FINE

Washington, Oct. 21.—The largest tobacco crop in the history of America is forecast by the Department of Agriculture in a detailed statement just issued. The department says:

"The exceptionally large crop of tobacco in prospect in September has maintained its favorable aspect although a decrease in estimated yield of 20,495,000 pounds is shown. The present forecast is for a crop of 1,203,077,000 pounds, which is still the largest crop, by 100,000,000 pounds, ever produced in this country and more than 210,000,000 pounds greater than the average crop of the past five years. It exceeds last year's crop by 143,000,000 pounds.

"The crop in New England was harvested before September and no change is reported. In New York the crop improved wonderfully, making a good growth and showing more gum in the leaves. It was all harvested safely except about fifty acres caught by the frost of September 30. In Pennsylvania a small decline in condition is shown, due to dry weather and some hail damage. The late crop in Maryland matured finely and is curing nicely. In Virginia the yield is proving somewhat lighter than was expected, but the quality is reported good. In North Carolina and South Carolina the crop is reported very slightly lower than last month, probably representing fuller information. The latter State reports the color fair, but weight somewhat light.

"In Kentucky the high condition was maintained, the month being ideal for housing and curing. Burley there is extra fine in color and texture and only a small amount of the late crop was hurt by the dry weather of September. The dryness was too extreme for the very best results in curing, but was particularly favorable for the proper harvesting and housing of the immense crop. The frosts of the 16th and 19th found but little tobacco in the fields. The leaf is generally well grown, but thin. Similar conditions obtained in Tennessee, where the crop was gathered with no loss from frost damage and where it suffered little damage in curing.

"In Ohio the crop did well until the frost of the 15th and 19th, which caught part of the crop in the fields and damaged the quality of about 15 per cent. of the total acreage of the cigar type and 12 per cent. of the Burley. In Indiana a light frost about the middle of the month did some damage, but as the greater part of the crop had been cut the harm was not extensive. The crop there, which was of a splendid stand and growth, was otherwise harvested under very favorable conditions. The crop in West Virginia was housed and cured in fine condition and is a thin, curly leaf. In Wisconsin the Rock county crop grew wonderfully after the September rains, but about 40 per cent. of the Northern crop and 25 per cent. of the entire State crop was caught by frosts. The Wisconsin crop is now practically all out of the hands of the growers."

Stanley's Appointees Defeated.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 21.—All of Gov. Stanley's appointees were defeated in to-day's primary to nominate two candidates for Mayor and candidates for Commissioner. The nominees for Mayor are: Frank N. Burns and C. L. VanMeter; for Commissioner, Thomas N. Hazelip, R. R. Treadway, F. E. Graves, W. A. Gardner, Don P. Marlon and John R. Scott.

A Mayor and three Commissioners are to be elected in November.

HUGHES' REMARKS AT LOUISVILLE, KY.

In Regard To the Lusitania Affair

TOUCHED ON IN TRUE LIGHT

A Sad Exhibition Of His Ignorance In Regard To International Affairs.

REPUBLICAN PAPER HITS HIM

Even our patient and long-suffering Republican neighbor, the Tribune, finds Mr. Hughes' Lusitania statement too absurd to be taken seriously as a policy of government.

It says: "The Tribune disagrees with Mr. Hughes in the matter of the Lusitania, if by his Louisville utterance he meant to express the belief that had the German Government known in advance that the sinking of the Lusitania would be followed merely by a severance of diplomatic relations it would have refrained from the crime."

For four months no effort has been spared to smoke Mr. Hughes out on the vital issues of the campaign. These efforts have been uniformly unsuccessful, but at last he was compelled to say nothing definite about the Lusitania case. Then he made the most nonsensical contribution to the discussion of the German crisis that the campaign has produced.

What makes the matter worse, Mr. Hughes must have known that it was both ridiculous and demagogic. Ill informed as he is about international relations and foreign affairs, it is incredible that a man of his general intelligence and his trained habits of thought should be so ignorant as his Louisville statement implies.

When Mr. Hughes now says that if he had been President he would have threatened to sever diplomatic relations with Germany because of the so-called Lusitania advertisement, he knows that he is not sincere. He would not have done what he says he would have done. He would never have thought of doing it. Mr. Hughes would not have known anything about this advertisement until after the Lusitania sailed, and he would not have found in the language of the advertisement the faintest hint that the Lusitania or any other particular ship was to be destroyed without warning by a German submarine.

The advertisement merely reiterated the warning of the German war zone proclamation of February 4:

"Vessels flying the flag of Great Britain or any of her allies are liable to destruction in those waters, and that travelers sailing in the war zone on ships of Great Britain or her allies do so at their own risk."

Everything that the United States Government had to say in reply to that warning had been expressed officially in a communication to the German Government in the previous February. The advertisement had no diplomatic status. It was like a newspaper interview with the German Ambassador in which he repeated the language of the war zone proclamation.

If Mr. Hughes does not know that, he does not know anything about the diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany. If he does know it, he knows that he is seeking deliberately to deceive the American people by telling them that his action would have had a result directly opposite to what the actual result must inevitably have been.

A strange government we should have indeed if the principal duty of the President and the Secretary of State was to read the advertisements in the morning newspapers in order to obtain information out of which to construct a foreign policy. Mr. Hughes' first attempt to take the American people into his confidence is a deplorable exhibition even in a 100-per-cent. candidate. In the light of it, we can the better understand his extreme reluctance to say

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

what he would have had done and what he would have left undone had he been President. The more he reveals his attitude toward foreign affairs the more grateful the American people must be that the President of the United States is not Charles E. Hughes but Woodrow Wilson.—[New York World.]

OVER-CONFIDENCE IS DANGEROUS JUST NOW

While there is every indication that Kentucky will go for Wilson by a large majority, the consummation devoutly to be wished can be accomplished only by every Democrat doing his full duty. The enemy is making strenuous efforts to win the prize, with money and other devices known to those who are not above doing anything to accomplish their purpose. Much money is being poured into the State and if it can seduce enough voters to change their allegiance, the result may be problematical. Fortunately, however, the Republicans have little confidence that they can carry Kentucky, even with Wall Street's aid, and are making the effort of their lives to hold even their own, as is shown by trotting Candidate Hughes through the State again, much of it through the territory held by them, and of which they now seem in no wise certain. They are going to contest every inch of ground, however, and Democrats must be alert. Let eternal vigilance have full sway, and never say quit till a glorious victory is won.

THINKS IMPRISONMENT MAY WORK DRUG CURE

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 20.—A. J. McMullen, well known tobacco buyer of this city and father of Miss Nannie McMullen, 33 years old, now in jail in Evansville waiting for the grand jury to consider the charge that she passed worthless checks in order to obtain a powerful drug to which she has become a slave, is of the belief that the Indiana courts may succeed where he has failed, and while punishing his daughter as a criminal, succeed in breaking her of the drug habit which has caused her downfall. Unable to meet the checks which she has passed in Evansville and several other cities, the father is forced to let the law take its course.

BRYAN ASSERTS WILSON CERTAIN OF RE-ELECTION

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 18.—William J. Bryan began his campaign in Tennessee in behalf of the Democratic ticket here to-day. He was joined by Gov. T. C. Rye, K. D. McKellar, candidate for United States Senator, and other prominent Democrats of the State. Mr. Bryan addressed a large crowd in front of the Union Station.

"I have been on the firing line in the Middle West, where the campaign is the hottest," he said. "I have spoken in twelve States so far, and the Democrats of Tennessee and the South may be assured there is a mighty current of public sentiment, continually growing, that will sweep President Wilson to a victorious reelection."

The November Woman's Home Companion.

Charles Evans Hughes, Republican candidate for President, has written an article for the November Woman's Home Companion in which he discusses some interesting topics for women. Other special articles are "The Christian in Politics," which is a sermon for voters; "Comedy and Tragedy of Being Fat," a confession by a stout woman; "Heroines of Fiction"; "Finding Your Market" and "What is the Matter With Your Baby."

The fiction consists of the concluding installment of "A Daughter of the Morning" and the beginning of "The Man Eater," a new two-part story. Mary W. Freeman and others contribute short stories.

The fashions, pictures and other regular departments are filled with interesting material.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—All high prices since the European war began were outdone to-day in the wheat market here. Notwithstanding a jump yesterday of more than seven cents a bushel, the market to-day ascended further 4 1/2 cents, with December touching $1.68 as against $1.63 1/2 at yesterday's finish.

THE NEW AND THE OLD ROOSEVELT.

The New: April, 1916.

"On August 4, 1914, the issue of this war for the conscience of the world was Belgium. Now in the spring of 1916 the issue remains Belgium. For eighteen months our people were bidden by their representative at Washington to feel no resentment against a hideous wrong. They were taught to tame their human feelings by polished phrases of neutrality. Because they lacked the proper outlet of expression they grew indifferent to a supreme injustice."

"But to-day they are at last becoming alive to the iniquity of the crushing of Belgium. Belgium is the battleground of the war on the western front. But Belgium is also the battleground of the struggle in our country between the forces of good and evil. In the ranks of evil are ranged all the pacifist sentimentalists, the cowards who possess the gift of clothing their cowardice in soothing and attractive words, the materialists whose souls have been rotted by exclusive devotion to the things of the body and sincere persons who are cursed with a deficient sense of reality and all who lack forethought or who are uninformed."

"Against them stand the great mass of loyal Americans, who when they see the right and receive moral leadership show that they have in their souls as much of the valor of righteousness as the men of 1860 and 1776. The literary bureau at Washington has acted as a soporific on the mind and conscience of the American people. Fine words, designed to work confusion between right and wrong, have put them to sleep. But they now stir in their sleep."—[Roosevelt's Introduction to Gleason's Book on Belgium.]

The Old: Sept. 23, 1914.

"All of us on this continent ought to appreciate how fortunate we are that we of this Western World have been free from the working of the causes which have produced the bitter and vindictive hatred among the great military Powers of the Old World. We owe this immunity primarily to the policies grouped together under the title of the Monroe Doctrine. The Monroe Doctrine is as vital to the interests of this hemisphere as it ever has been."

"A deputation of Belgians has arrived in this country to invoke our assistance in the time of their dreadful need. What action our government can or will take I know not. It has been announced that no action can be taken that will interfere with our entire neutrality. It is certainly eminently desirable that we should remain entirely neutral, and nothing but urgent need would warrant breaking our neutrality and taking sides one way or the other. * * *

"Of course, it would be folly to jump into the gulf ourselves to no good purpose; and very probably nothing that we could have done would have helped Belgium. We have not the smallest responsibility for what has befallen her, and I am sure the sympathy of this country for the suffering of the men, women and children of Belgium is very real. Nevertheless, this sympathy is compatible with full acknowledgment of the unwisdom of our uttering a single word of official protest unless we are prepared to make that protest effective; and only the clearest and most urgent national duty would ever justify us in deviating from our rule of neutrality and non-interference."—[Roosevelt's Signed Article in Outlook.]

IF DEATH SHOULD TAKE A CANDIDATE

For President the Election Would Proceed

IN USUAL WAY JUST THE SAME

We Do Not Vote For the Presidential Candidates, But For Electors.

THEY WOULD CHOOSE ANOTHER

Suppose one of the candidates for President of the United States were to die the night before election, how would that situation be handled?

"That question comes to me from the manager of a large industrial plant. Answer:

Nothing would happen. The election would be held on November 7 and the voting would proceed as usual.

We do not vote for either C. E. Hughes or Woodrow Wilson. Their names will not be on the ballots. What we do vote for is a set of Presidential Electors, none of whose names we bother to learn.

One set of Electors if it wins is expected to cast Pennsylvania's State vote for Hughes and the other set, if it wins, for Wilson.

But the Republican Electors if successful in Pennsylvania are not legally bound to cast their ballots in the Electoral College for Mr. Hughes. They could vote for anybody who is qualified under the United States Constitution to hold the office of President. The Republican Electors could legally vote for President Wilson.

An Elector is an independent agent. As a matter of practice he will vote for the candidate chosen at a party convention last June, but he can legally break the instruction, just as a delegate to that convention could have done.

Hence if either Presidential candidate were to die the day before the election all the States would on the following day vote for their two sets of Presidential Electors in the routine way.

These Presidential Electors who are chosen in November are obliged to meet in the various States on the second Monday in January following. That is the day the President of the United States is actually chosen.

That these Electors were intended to be free agents and to act as they deemed best is plainly inferred by the twelfth amendment to the Constitution of the United States. It says:

"They shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President and of all persons voted for as Vice President."

When that amendment was adopted

ed after the Jefferson-Burr battle of 1801 there never had been any political conventions and the Presidential Electors of the various States were expected to form as many conventions and there to choose a President.

In practice the Presidential Electors act merely as automatons. They permit the national conventions to do their thinking.

If one of the candidates selected by either convention were to die, the national committee of that party would some time after November 7 and prior to the second Monday in January designate a candidate.

That recommendation would carry all the weight of a national convention. But, as I have said, in neither case is the recommendation binding.

Since national conventions were first held in Andrew Jackson's time no Presidential candidate has died before the election.

When Van Buren was elected President no one was elected Vice President. The United States then exercised its prerogative and elected R. M. Johnson Vice President.

A Presidential Elector in a New England State refused to follow his party and voted for James Monroe "just so he could not be unanimously elected, as was George Washington."

Eleven States did not vote at all for President in 1864. In 1868 three States that had tried to secede could not vote.

In 1890 one of California's Presidential Electors who had been chosen by the Democrats refused to vote for Hancock. That State, therefore, gave Garfield one Elector and Hancock five.—[Philadelphia Ledger.]

APPEARANCE OF RADIUM AND ITS PECULIARITIES

Radium is a metal and is described as having a white metallic luster. It has been isolated only once or twice, and few people have seen it. Radium is ordinarily obtained from its ores in the form of hydrous sulphate, chloride, or bromide, and it is in the form of these salts that it is usually sold and used. These are all white or nearly white substances, whose appearance is no more remarkable than common salt or baking powder. Radium is found in nature in such exceedingly small quantities that it is never visible even when the material is examined with a microscope. Ordinarily radium ore carries only a small fraction of a grain per ton of material, and radium will never be found in large quantity because it is formed by the decay of uranium, a process which is wonderfully slow, and radium itself decays and changes to other elements so rapidly that it is impossible for it to accumulate naturally in visible masses. Minerals that carry radium, however, are fairly easy to determine. One of them, pitchblende, as generally found, is a black mineral about as heavy as ordinary iron, but much softer. The principal radium mineral, carnotite, has a bright canary-yellow color and is generally powdery.—[U. S. Geological Survey Bulletin.]

A COMPARISON.

When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock,
And you hear the kyouch and gobble of the struttin' turkey-cock,
And the cacklin' of the guineas, and the cluckin' of the hens,
And the rooster's halleluoyer as he tiptoes on the fence,
Oh it's then the time a fellow is a feelin' at his best,
With the risin' sun to greet him from a night of gracious rest,
As he leaves the house bareheaded and goes out to feed the stock,
When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

When the girl is in the flivver and the gas is in the tank,
When you give a kid a nickel just to twist around the crank,
When you hear the glow pulsating as you grab the steering-wheel—
And she nestles down beside you till you see the whole earth reel,
Oh, it's then the world seems brighter, and you feel the more alive;
You don't care where you are going—and don't care when you arrive;
For you feel that you're in heaven—in a heaven most serene—
And you pay no thought nor 'tention to the cost of gasoline!

MEXICO CANNOT BE LAW TO HERSELF TO HERSELF AT PRESENT

Mexico cannot be a law to herself alone and be considered a member of the family of nations. The United States is legitimately concerned with the internal affairs of Mexico in so far as they affect the lives and property of foreigners in Mexico. Gen. Pershing's expedition will not be withdrawn until Mexico has restored itself to a normal position as a nation among other nations. Such is the reply of the American to the Mexican Commissioners in their joint conference. It may be expected to bring from Carranza more fuming and threatening, but he must have learned by this time that he will only be wasting his breath. He may eventually realize that the quickest way to get rid of Pershing is to threaten less and act more in suppressing the outlawry that still flourishes under his very nose.—[New York World.]

Breaking It Gently.

An Ohio man was having a lot of trouble piloting a one-tent show through the Middle West. He lost a number of valuable animals by accident and otherwise. Therefore, it was with a sympathetic mien that one of the keepers undertook the task of breaking the news of another disaster. He began thus: "Mr. Smith, you remember that laughing hyena in cage 9?" "Remember the laughing hyena?" demanded the owner, angrily. "What the deuce are you driving at?" "Only this, Mr. Smith, he ain't got nothing to laugh at this morning."—[Brooklyn Citizen.]

Moments When Heart Stops.

When the toastmaster gets up, looks at you accusingly and says: "We have with us this evening—"

The sense of humor is a saving grace. It is better to be jolly than to be jolled.

SITUATION VERY EXTRAORDINARY

Calls Forth An Important Statement

TO THE NEWSPAPER READERS

Of Kentucky—An Appeal To the Public Who Patronize Newspapers.

CRITICAL CASE IS REVIEWED

To the newspaper readers of Kentucky:

The Executive Committee of the Kentucky Press Association wishes to bring to the attention of newspaper readers, and the friends of the press, the serious situation confronting the publishers at this time, and point out some facts which we feel should be communicated to you in our attempt to meet conditions recently thrust upon us. We do this after much thought on the matter, feeling that we are acting for the good of both publisher and reader. Doubtless you have been, or will be, called upon to pay a few cents more on your jobwork, and in some instances more for your paper and advertising, in cases where subscriptions and advertising rates have been at the minimum.

In the interest of a free press we ask you to meet the advance cheerfully. There may be ample excuse, slight excuse or no excuse to advance the prices on us as they have been advanced, but the fact remains that we are paying from 50 to 500 per cent. more for our paper stock, inks, oils, gasoline, metal, etc., than we did eight months ago.

Paper makers insist that there must be a cutting down in the demand upon them; that they are working three shifts a day, and that at this season of the year when they should be accumulating a reserve stock, they cannot supply the demand. Large publishers everywhere are trying to meet the suggestion of the paper makers by the strictest economy in which they are cutting down the size of paper, margins and granting no return of unsold papers. Small publishers have slight opportunity to economize in this manner. The Federal Trade Commission is deeply concerned and alarmed but so far seem powerless to suggest feasible or adequate relief methods. Under existing circumstances few newspapers can continue long without a readjustment. Hundreds of the weaker ones have already gone under, and many more are about to suspend.

There is a remedy and it lies in the strictest economy, advancement of rates on job work, advertising and subscription. It matters not how reluctant publishers are to do this, it will have to be done if they continue in business, and continue to be useful to their readers and patrons.

In conclusion, we call on all persons who believe in the mission of a free press to co-operate with us in adjusting our business to these new and unheard-of conditions.

KNOWN EFFECTS OF PROHIBITION

In the State Of Kansas Are Recounted.

FIGURES AND FACTS RECALLED

Former Governor Of the Sunflower State Gives Interesting Observations.

A GOOD SECTION TO LIVE IN

At the recent State meeting of the W. C. T. U. in Lexington, the Hon. George H. Hodges, former Governor of Kansas, gave the following interesting observations concerning the effect of Prohibition in that State:

"We have not had a licensed saloon in Kansas in thirty-four years, but I come not to defend prohibition. It needs no defense. Our freedom from crimes, imbecility, pauperism, degeneracy, feeble-mindedness and the attendant evils that follow the use of liquor, bespeak in no unmistakable terms the value of prohibition.

"The death rate throughout the United States is about 15 to 100,000. In Kansas it is 9.9-10.

"The average land tax, exclusive of improvements, is less than four cents an acre. Kansas has no State bonded indebtedness. We are entirely free from the consumption of liquor. Kansas spends $1.59 per capita for liquor; throughout the United States it costs $28 per capita. If our people drank the same amount of liquor that the same number of people do in other States, we would spend about $50,000,000 more for liquor than we do.

"We spend five times as much money on our school system as we spend for liquor, and that is the solution to the statement that we have only 2 per cent of illiteracy.

"When I retired as Governor a year ago, we had a prison population of 700. We have $150 on deposit in the banks for each man, woman and child in the State.

"Twenty-eight counties did not have a jail prisoner during all of 1914. Forty counties did not send a prisoner to the penitentiary that year. Twenty counties did not have a prisoner in the penitentiary that year, nor have they had for years. A dozen counties have not called a jury together in years to try a criminal case, and in fact they would not know the meaning of the word "grand jury." Nineteen counties have no poor farms. Thirty-two counties have no indigents. Our State has the remarkable showing of only one millionaire and only ten children taken care of at the poor farm last year. It has a greater per capita of wealth and a much more evenly distributed wealth than any State in the nation.

We only have one feeble-minded for every 3,000 self-possessed citizens. One insane for every 576 sane. Less than 3 per cent of our insanity is due to alcoholism.

"A State should be judged by what it does in an emergency, and during the financial panic of 1907 we made an immediate response to their request for money and sent them $50,000,000 in gold. Within four months after an appeal was made to farmers and business men, we sent to Belgium 63,000 barrels of our best Kansas flour.

"Of the school population of 600,000, four-fifths of the number were enrolled in school last year.

"One half of the population of Kansas never saw an open saloon and I dare to say that one-fourth or more of our young men and women never saw a drunken man in Kansas.

"Our State has less degeneracy, imbecility, pauperism, crime, insanity, feeble-mindedness, in proportion to our population, than any other State in the nation. A greater per capita wealth, a greater circulating medium, more contentment and less death rate than any other State. You will have to agree that we are a superior class of people, or that these blessings, both commercial and moral, have come to us because there has not been a licensed saloon in Kansas in thirty-four years."

SOME DON'TS.

Don't forget that you must reap what you sow.

Don't forget that you will pass over life's highway but once.

Don't forget to do all the good you can to-day, for you may be missing to-morrow.

Don't forget that the world will move on without you when you are gone, as though you had never lived.

Don't forget to give the gossip a cool reception when she enters your home.

Don't forget that there is some good in every man, and that it is your duty to give him credit for it.

Don't think you are the only pebble on the beach. There are others, perhaps that are worth far more than you.

Don't forget that in the other world you will be judged by what you really are and have been worth to a wicked world, and not by your dollars and cents.

Don't forget to turn your face away from all you meet as you pass along, if you are hateful and scornful, for, if you don't you might cast a shadow over their lives.

Don't forget to speak to all you meet as you pass along, for you might miss speaking to a King.

Don't forget that you and the beggar are made of the same material. The only difference is the life you both live.

SEVEN COUNTIES FOR STATE HELP

Twenty - Eight Counties
Have Voted Total

IN ROAD BONDS, $5,755,000

Some Delay In Issuing Of Bonds
—Different Methods Employed In Work.

LITTLE CONVICT LABOR USED

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 20.—To date just seven counties out of the 120 have applied for State aid in 1917 road construction. This besides the twenty-eight counties which have voted a total of $5,755,000 in road bonds.

Road Commissioner Rodman Wiley is urging the counties to make application at once, so that surveys and all preliminaries may be attended to this winter in readiness for systematic operations at the first open season in the spring. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will be saved if the counties take immediate action, it is said.

Of the twenty-eight counties voting bond issues these of Union and Powell are now in litigation and Boyd, Carter, Breathitt and Trigg have not yet sold their bonds. Union voted $450,000, Powell $40,000, Boyd $50,000, Carter $150,000, Breathitt $150,000 and Trigg $150,000.

The other counties voting bond issues are Ballard, Pulaski and Fayette, $300,000 each; Lewis and Kenton, $150,000 each; Greenup, Knox and Bracken, $200,000 each; Bell, Whitley and Harlan, $250,000 each; Rockcastle, Scott, Laurel, Campbell and Oldham, $100,000 each; Nicholas, $125,000; Clinton and Carroll, $50,000 each; Russell, $40,000; Daviess, $600,000; Christian, $40,000. Of these issues Greenup has sold $100,000 of the bonds, Whitley $150,000, Pulaski $250,000, Oldham $35,000 and Bracken $25,000. The others have sold their entire issue, excepting Clinton, which has only contracted for sale.

State Inspector and Examiner Nat B. Sewell has reports from all the counties, excepting Christian, on the handling of the bond issues. The reports show that Lewis, Bell and Russell received no premiums on their bonds, and Lewis, Greenup, Laurel, Clinton, Russell, Campbell, Oldham and Bracken receive no interest on their road fund on deposit. Ballard gets 4 1/2 per cent., Fayette 4, Knox 2 on $190,000 and none on $60,000; Whitley gets 2, Harlan and Rockcastle 3, Scott and Nicholas 2, Carroll 4, Pulaski and Daviess 2 and Kenton 3.

Ballard has spent $22,000; Lewis, $133,000; Greenup, $72,000; Knox, $22,000; Bell, $269,000; Whitley, $125,000; Rockcastle, $40,000; Scott, $9,000; Laurel, $50,000; Nicholas, $101,000; Clinton, $8,000 for surveys; Russell, $6,500; Carroll, $18,000; Campbell, $50,000; Oldham, $10,710.

Only Fayette and Kenton have commissions handling their work. In the other counties the Fiscal Courts have charge. In Knox, Whitley, Harlan, Laurel, Russell, Daviess and Kenton the work is being done by contract. In Bell the work is being done by the county force and the other counties are employing both methods.

Of these total, $5,755,000 voted, $3,725,000 have been sold and $1,930,000 spent, leaving unexpended of those sold $2,810,000, with $1,930,000 yet to be sold.

Lewis county was the first to issue bonds and Bell has spent the most. Bell voted another issue of $150,000, but as it could not make an extra levy to pay the interest under a decision of the Court of Appeals, it can issue only $35,000 of these. It spent largely for equipment and ran short of money with considerable of the original project unfinished. This work is being completed with convict labor, using the county machinery.

New Centers Of Learning.

The European war has caused a noticeable shifting of the world's centers of learning, according to C. D. Hurrey in the World's Outlook. He states that fully five thousand young men from abroad are already enrolled in the colleges and universities of this country. They represent every one of the twenty-one Latin-American republics, the Philippine Islands, China, Japan, India, Africa, the Turkish Empire and many European nations. Over three hundred, Mr. Hurrey says, have registered in the University of California and nearly as many in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, while scores are entering the great State universities and technical schools. Five years ago there were about one thousand; to-day there are five thousand; five years from now there will be ten thousand or even more.

WOMAN, 19, WHO KILLED MAN, 75, IS ACQUITTED

Hazard, Ky., Oct. 20.—Mrs. Cora Maggard, 19, charged with killing James Blevins, 75, was freed by a jury here on the ground that she was defending herself. She testified that she and Blevins met at a secluded spot on a lonely mountain trail and that the aged man attacked her, whereupon she drew a revolver from under a wrap and shot him, killing him instantly.

Mrs. Maggard is the mother of a 3-months-old infant. The jury was closed on the case only a few minutes.

SOME REMINISCENCES— THE OLD PAISLEY SHAWL

Here and there in the older sections of the Eastern part of the country, and occasionally in the West, where a pioneer family has preserved its early belongings, a Paisley shawl is to be found.

Not an imitation, but one that grandmother and her mother before her wore. Now it is to be drawn gently from among other lavendered treasures at the bottom of an old mahogany chest and draped upon mi lady's shoulders—once again among the smartest things in fashion. One by one the modes of other days are resurrected to be pieced here and there into "modern" creations.

Let it be hoped that the Paisley shawl may reign alone, if at all, if only because of the tender, if somewhat dim, memories it evokes of our youth.—[New York Telegram.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President—Woodrow Wilson.
For Vice Pres't.—T. R. Marshall
For Congress—Hon. Ben Johnson.

ONE GOOD TURN
DESERVES ANOTHER

Eight-hour day for the workingmen.
Eight years in Washington for Woodrow Wilson.

Every Democrat in Ohio county should roll up his sleeves and go to work for the re-election of President Wilson and Hon. Ben Johnson. They deserve, and as we believe, will get your undivided support.

The time is now short. It takes votes to win and every vote counts. In a crisis like this, every Democrat who can possibly do so (even at considerable inconvenience if necessary) should get to the polls and vote. No election in the history of the country was more important than this one. On it hinges in a great measure the fate of our country as a nation—especially our peace and prosperity. The defeat of President Wilson would be in the nature of a calamity. He should lose no Democratic vote.

That was a soul-inspiring speech which Senator James delivered at the court house here Saturday. At times he arose to the full height of his well known oratorical ability and the big room fairly shook with applause. He defended the President's course in a masterly way and also spoke a good word for his colleague in Congress, Hon. Ben Johnson. Owing to circumstances his speech was a little short and hurried, but he said enough, and in such a way, for his big audience to remember for many a day.

For weeks past the country has been amused at the comical sight of Candidate Hughes raising his hand high in speech and denouncing the Adamson eight-hour law, while seventy Republican Congressmen who voted for it are running for re-election on their records and the twenty-eight Republican Senators who allowed the bill to pass when they could have easily defeated it, are just "sawing wood and saying nothing." Was there ever such an exhibition of bluffing in a Republican candidate for President?

The women of Kentucky have opened Democratic headquarters in Louisville at the Seelbach Hotel, where they will gladly welcome their friends. Mrs. Hardie B. Rippey, chairman, is in charge. They hope and pray for the sake of peace and preventing the unnecessary bloodshed of our boys, that a Woodrow Wilson Women's League be organized in every county in the State. Send the names as soon as possible into headquarters. The time is limited; they urge haste. They heartily welcome all encouraging letters and callers.

At no time in the history of political parties has there been such a betrayal of faith, confidence and esteem as that manifested by Col. Roosevelt towards his followers. That was a brave act when he cut loose from the Old Guard (the Republican party) because of rottenness in that organization. Thousands thought as he did and had faith in him as a leader. They stuck to him to the last fateful minute. Then his hypocrisy was exposed to its fullness and they were left with the reward of blasted hopes and a disgusting show of ingratitude.

The most important Presidential election in the history of the United States as a nation is now nearly at hand. It is a critical situation. The most momentous questions are involved. On account of the European war, it is nearly if not altogether a question as to whether or not we shall become involved in that gigantic and terrific struggle. President Wilson has so far, under the most trying circumstances, kept us out of it with honor to the nation, and would continue to do so, if at all possible. Mr. Hughes is the Berlin candidate. That of itself is significant. Which do you prefer?

NO ILLITERATES NOW IN TWELVE COUNTIES

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 23.—Twelve counties are free of illiteracy, according to Mrs. Cora Wilson Ste-art, who attended the teachers' convention here. She said:

"Forty thousand adults have been taught to read and write in the two and one-half years we have been working, and we plan to teach 25,000 more in the next year. Leslie will be one of the counties to be free of illiteracy in another year, and that county, in proportion to its population, is the most illiterate county in the State. A thousand people are being taught there this year."

SOCIALIST CANDIDATE
SAYS WILSON WILL WIN

San Francisco, Oct. 21.—After completing a transcontinental campaign tour and feeling out public sentiment from coast to coast, Allen L. Benson, Socialist candidate for President, predicts the re-election of President Wilson. On reaching San Francisco he was interviewed by the Bulletin, which quotes him as follows:

"The tendencies of the voters of this country, as I have observed them in a speaking tour of forty days, all incline toward the re-election of Mr. Wilson. If Mr. Hughes is permitted to talk long enough he will do for Mr. Wilson all that the President can't do for himself. Mr. Hughes is trying to get the solid millionaire vote, and I think he will succeed."

"Mr. Hughes always was a handy man for the Rockefellers. He went to church with them and taught a Bible class there. When he became Governor of New York he vetoed the two-cent fare bill, which was so bitterly opposed by the Rockefeller railroads, and tried to prevent the ratification of the income tax amendment."

WHY I AM FOR WILSON.

I'm for Wilson because he is "onto" the "interests"—the "unseen hands" that seek to control government—and is holding them off. That he is "onto" them and is holding off is proved by his refusal to rush into war with Mexico. For purely business reasons the welfare of the country demands Wilson's re-election. I say—and I say from experience, not from guesswork—that the Eight-hour law will help business. Business men and employers who are hostile to the eight-hour day do not know their business. I'm for Wilson because I believe he can do more to enhance the prosperity and assure peace for this nation than any other candidate.

HITS ROOSEVELT HARD

"This Movement Will Never Go Back, and Whatever May Betide in the Future, of One Thing the Disciples of an Easy Opportunism May Rest Assured—I Will Never Abandon the Principles to Which We Progressives Have Pledged Ourselves, and I Will Never Abandon the Men Who Drew Around Me to Battle For These Principles."—[Theodore Roosevelt.]

His picture, in his brave rough rider uniform, is no longer the Progressive emblem in this State. He knew for months that delegates to the Progressive National Convention were being instructed for him. This he permitted—for what purpose, is inexcusably known. These delegates were unbecomingly by his conduct and the above utterance.

KAISER DELIGHTED AT ALLIES' HEAVY LOSSES

Amsterdam, Holland, Oct. 22 (via London).—Emperor William visited the Champagne front on Wednesday of last week, according to the Cologne Gazette, and presented Gen. von Einem (commander of the Saxon army) with the laurels of the Order of Pour le Merite. The Emperor was in excellent spirits, the newspaper says, and showed the greatest confidence in the result of the war. He expressed lively satisfaction over the heavy losses of the British and French.

Never Heard Of Bible.

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.—Several thousand inhabitants of the island of Nonivak, Alaska, have never heard of the Bible, according to a report to-day to the Women's Home Missionary Society, in session here. Following an executive session it was announced that an investigation would be conducted and plans were being made for an extension of the Jesse Lee Home, at Unalaska Island, to rectify the condition.

Dr. W. F. Baldwin, superintendent of the mission at Nome, Alaska, will be sent to the island next June to investigate and report.

DISGUSTED BY GERMAN
FIGHT AGAINST WILSONNew York Supreme Court Justice
Ford Quits the Republican Party.

New York, Oct. 20.—John Ford, a Justice of the Supreme Court in New York, a life-long Republican, announced to-day that he will vote for President Wilson.

"I am a Yankee, but I am proud of my Irish blood," he said to-day. "I was born in this country, but my father was born in County Roscommon and my mother in County Mayo. This makes me pretty much of an Irishman, but I am no hyphenate, and the propaganda against our President in certain quarters entirely disgusts me."

In a letter to President Wilson Justice Ford says:

"Since my first vote for Blaine in 1884 I have consistently voted for the Republican candidates. But this is an election which demands of every citizen the casting off of partisan ties and a merciless search of conscience to determine how his vote may unselfishly and honestly be cast to serve best the interests of the United States without regard to the effect it may have upon any other country or any foreign interest."

"I have endeavored to bring my mind to view the issues from such a standpoint, and have concluded that it was my patriotic duty to vote for you."

"In my opinion it would be most unwise to change the national Administration in the midst of this unprecedented world crisis."

"Moreover, I would be false to my lifelong allegiance to the cause of the plain people if I failed to support you, to whom is mainly due the long list of progressive and beneficial laws enacted during your Administration."

Mrs. Radford Dies Suddenly.

Mrs. Agnes M. Radford, widow of the late Benjamin Radford, died suddenly of heart disease at 7:20 o'clock Sunday night, at her home, 320 Boliver street. Mrs. Radford was apparently in the best of health during the day. She conversed with her son, Morton Radford, and several friends who were at her home. In the evening Mr. Radford went to church, and upon his return was horrified to find his mother lying on the floor, dead. Mrs. Radford had died from heart failure.

Mrs. Radford was born in Virginia, but for the past 30 years had resided in this city. She was one of the most beloved women in Owensboro. She is survived by her two sons, Morton Radford of Owensboro and Lee Radford of Evansville, and by her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Weede, of Chicago, who with her husband arrived in the city this morning.

The funeral will be conducted from the residence Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, with services by Rev. E. E. Bomar, pastor of the First Baptist church. The interment will be in Elmwood cemetery with the following acting as pallbearers: Dr. J. J. Rodman, W. N. Bumpus, Lee D. Ray, James Keeley, C. B. Elliott and James W. Mohrberly.—[Owensboro Inquirer.]

PREACHERS URGING THE ELECTION OF WILSON

Congressman Arthur B. Rouse, Chairman of the Speaker's Bureau of the State Campaign, continues to secure the best speakers in the country for Kentucky and they are arousing the people to the importance attaching to the approaching election. Among the last he has secured are Gov. Yeager of Porto Rico and Congressman Garrett of Tennessee.

Several preachers have volunteered their services, one of them being the Rev. Edgar C. Riley, of Boone county, a prominent pulpit orator of the Christian Church, who spoke at Murray in Calloway county and will speak at other points. He is so imbued with the conviction that Wilson should be re-elected to continue to keep the country out of war with honor, that he regards it a religious duty to urge the people to retain him in office.

DRIVING GERMAN FROM THE SUPPORT OF HUGHES

While Candidate Hughes is using the soft pedal in his effort to hold the support of the Germans, Roosevelt is driving it away by his violent abuse of them, and a change of sentiment is observed all over the country. The hyphenates had made the impression on the loyal Germans that Wilson is unfriendly to them, but they are finding out their mistake and will vote for him. Letters from the State Campaign headquarters from the German strongholds in the State indicates this, and show that in Kentucky at least, there are very few disloyal Germans.

The Cincinnati Post is authority for the statement that the leaders in that city had Roosevelt's car switched so that he could not address the crowd that had gathered for fear his blood and thunder utterances would play smash with the vote in that German stronghold and then laid the fault on the railroads.

EIGHTEEN MEN DEAD IN MINE BLAST IN ALABAMA

Marvel, Ala., Oct. 23.—Eighteen men lost their lives as the result of an explosion in the Roden coal mine here yesterday and early to-day rescuers had brought sixteen bodies to the surface. Six were negroes. W. F. Lowrey and a miner named Pervis are still in the mine and all hope for them has been abandoned. The cause of the explosion is believed to have been accumulated gas.

Will Probe Lynchings.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 23.—Circuit Judge William Reed to-day started impaneling a special grand jury to investigate the lynching of two negroes here last Monday and to return indictments against leaders of the mob. The Judge's action was endorsed this morning by the Paducah Bar Association and it is said that every effort will be made to apprehend the mob leaders. The jury assembles Friday.

High Price For Corn.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 23.—Local elevators are paying 70 cents a bushel for new white corn. This is the highest price paid for corn at this season of the year in Owensboro, for a number of years. With the prevailing high price for corn, it is certain that hundreds of growers will begin selling as quickly as they can harvest the grain.

Wheat Jumps Again.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Wheat prices made another sensational jump upward to-day of more than five cents a bushel. The December option reached $1.75 and May $1.75 as against respectively $1.70 1/2 to $1.70 3/4 and $1.70 1/2 to $1.70 3/4 at the finish on Saturday.

His Golf Prize.

When the Duke of York was living in Edinburgh in 1681 he was told that a certain shoemaker named Paterson was the best golf player in Scotland, and him, the duke, later James II., chose as partner in a foursome, winning a huge stake. He promptly turned over the money to Paterson, who forthwith built a house in which the duke placed a stone with a Paterson crest bearing the motto, "Far and Sure."

Beaver Dam, Ky.

BEAVER DAM.

Oct. 23.—Quite a number of our town people went to Hartford to hear Senator James in his appeal to the voters of the county to continue the present administration another term. They all claim they heard the best political speech ever made in the county.

Mrs. Rachel Gorman died Friday evening. She had been confined to her room for some time with a complication of diseases, so her death was not a surprise to the family. She was 80 years old and a member of the Methodist church. She is survived by two children, Ezra Gorman, of this town but will shortly leave with his family for Tulsa, Okla., to make his home, and her daughter, Miss Ellen, who lives at home. After funeral services at her home conducted by Rev. Frank, Sunday morning, her remains were taken to the Westerfield burying ground, north of Hartford, and laid to rest by the side of her husband, who preceded her about six years.

Walker M. Stevens crossed that final river Sunday at noon, after a long illness of diseases incident to old age, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Westerfield, of Union neighborhood. He was 86 years old and had spent his long life in this county as a farmer, living most of the time in Liberty neighborhood. He was a member of the Methodist church. He is survived by six children—Samuel, Flen and Richard, the widow Annie Chick, Mrs. Elva Westerfield and Mrs. Callie Martin, all living in this county, besides a number of grand and great-grandchildren. After funeral services conducted Monday at ten o'clock by Rev. R. L. Creal his remains were laid to rest by the side of loved ones in the Liberty burying ground. Peace to his remains!

Mr. Jesse Blankenship and Miss Hazel Hocker motored to Hartford Saturday evening where they were made husband and wife. Mr. Blankenship is one of the popular young men of this vicinity, living with his father two miles from town, out the Morgantown road, and is in the mining business. Miss Hazel is one of the popular young ladies of Beaver Dam, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hocker, living in South Beaver Dam. She graduated in the Beaver Dam High School two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Williams, who have been sojourning in the mountains at Stone, Ky., for several years, have returned to the land that flows with milk and honey. They will make their home at Williams Mines where Mr. Williams has the position of bookkeeper.

Mrs. Minerva Taylor and son Ray, of Bowling Green, spent a day in Beaver Dam last week on business.

Mr. Oscar Bond shipped a carload of mules and 25 steers that averaged over a thousand pounds each last week. A man from Hardin county bought the steers and Mr. Bond was shipping the mules to his farm in Hardin county.

KENTUCKY GUARDSMEN MAY SOON GET MORE MONEY

Washington, Oct. 23.—It is not believed by War Department officials and others that the allowance made to the Kentucky guardsmen, which is practically nil, will represent all that the militiamen will receive in Federal aid for this fiscal year. It is considered likely that such a protest will be raised that Congress will make an additional appropriation that will bring the money allowance of each State up to the usual amount. For one thing, the men now in the service have the full equipment provided for the regular army, and it is believed this equipment will be kept by the Kentucky guardsmen when they return home. War Department officials say they have no intention of penalizing guard organizations that sent full quotas to the front and they will not interpose any obstacles in the way of efforts to secure more money from Congress.

Expectations that the Kentucky National Guardsmen would return from the border in time for the national election were shattered by a War Department statement that no order for return was contemplated.

THE HANCOCK CIRCUIT COURT NOW IN SESSION

Monday morning Judge Slack convened the Hancock Circuit Court at Hawesville. Beginning Monday, October 30, the special term of the Daviess county Circuit Court will be convened with either Judge Samuel V. Dixon, of Henderson, or Judge J. R. Layman, of Elizabethtown, presiding.

The docket setting of the Hancock court is a light one. The only case of interest will be that of Commonwealth against Dr. R. W. Frymire, who was arrested on June 30, 1916, near Floral schoolhouse on a charge of murdering Henry W. Schaefer, a prominent farmer of the Floral neighborhood. Frymire was taken to Owensboro immediately following his arrest, as the Hancock county officials feared mob violence for the prisoner. Dr. Frymire has been confined in the Daviess county jail ever since the killing.

Gaines—Funk.

Miss Addie Mae Gaines, of Sunnydale, and Mr. Clyde Funk, of Clear Run, were united in wedlock October 19th, at the home of the bride by Rev. R. E. Fuqua.

Mo., and having been making her home with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Perdue, since a mere child, is one of Sunnydale's most beautiful and popular girls. The groom is the youngest son of Mrs. J. T. Funk and is a prosperous young farmer.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for the home of the groom, where they will reside. This young couple have the very best wishes of many friends for a long and happy married life.

Cook—Taylor.

Mr. John P. Taylor, son of Hon. and Mrs. H. P. Taylor, city, took his relatives and friends here somewhat by surprise last Monday by announcement of his marriage the day before. The wedding occurred at the home plantation of the bride's parents in a suburb of Vicksburg, Sunday, October 22, at 9:30 p. m., Rev. T. M. Holloman, of the Methodist church, officiating.

The bride is one of the Southland's most winsome and popular girls. He is one of Hartford's sterling young men who has gone out and made good.

The bride and groom stopped off yesterday on their way to Chicago to visit the latter's parents here, receiving the congratulations of a number of Hartford people, among whom John was always popular and well beloved. SECRET POWDER CACHE
IN MAINE IS BLOWN UPExplosion In An Old Fishing Shed Revives Stories of U-Boat Base.

East Machias, Me., Oct. 20.—This little village was shaken out of its sleep at 4 o'clock yesterday morning by an explosion so tremendous that it was felt and heard ten miles away.

The mystery that still surrounds the cause of the explosion has revived all the tales of hidden wireless stations in the forests and submarine bases in the rocky inlets or on the offshore islands, in circulation since the beginning of the war, and especially prevalent since the exploits of the U-53.

Investigation so far has developed only that the explosion demolished an old fishing shed, built on piles in the middle of the East Machias river, at the head of navigation. Apparently this building, which had been locked up, and supposedly deserted for months, had been secretly converted into a magazine for high explosives.

Who assembled the explosives there, what their motives and purposes were, and what caused the detonation, are things so far beyond learning. Carroll Denison, of this place, owned the building, but used it only in the spring, and had not been near it for months. For persons desiring secrecy, it was located ideally.

Early this afternoon the destroyer McDougal came into Bar Harbor and sent a liberty party ashore, but had hardly landed them when she recalled them, got under way in great haste, and steamed out of the harbor at full speed.

A Narrow Escape.

A groceryman in a small town in Jersey had an exhibit of eggs in his show window. One day he removed the eggs and filled the widow space with a brood of tiny chickens. A colored woman who dealt at the store happened to pass and stopped, agast.

"Well, fo' de lan's sake!" she exclaimed, "if dem eggs hain't done gone an' hatched."

"Well, what of it?" smilingly queried a bystander.

"What of it?" cried the colored woman. "Why, jes' fink what a narrer escape dat angel cake dat I made de udder day had from bein' a chicken potpie!"

Yes, Verily.

"Your wife used to sing, and play the piano a lot. Now we don't hear her at all. How's that?"

"She hasn't time. We have two children now."

"Well, well! After all, children are a great blessing!"

Woman's Contribution.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 20.—Among the list of contributors to the Wilson campaign fund being raised by the Daily New Era of this city, appears a "cash" donation of $1.00.

This was sent in by a prominent lady of Hopkinsville who stated that she is a Republican, but hoped "Wilson would be re-elected because he has kept the United States out of war." She stated further that she found this dollar on Friday, October 13, and believed it was a lucky piece and she therefore wanted it to go into the Democratic fund.

"WOMAN'S PLACE" IN THE WORLD AS FIGURES SHOW

"Women's place in the home" is a doctrine little heard. The war has brought that about. But United States census figures, collected before the war was dreamed of, show that we have or had these women workers in the United States: 476 fisherwomen, 40 wood-choppers, 45 quarry workers, 15 stone masons, 32 electricians, 10 stationary engineers, 24 coppermiths, 73 drywomen, 6 stable hands, 5 whitewashers, 2 mining engineers, 5 stonecutters, 44 longshore women, 103 watchwomen, 250 barkeepers, 5 auctioneers, 42 lumber women, 39 mine operatives, 849 woman contractors, 38 carpenters, 93 toolmakers, 117 molders, 3 civil engineers, 8 plasterers, 4 meat dressers, 27 meat cutters, 4 lumber camp bosses, 52 railway flagwomen, 150 delivery women, 73 potters, 873 undertakers.

Furthermore, about every woman in four is a wage-earner in some capacity. It looks to us as if women's place had been wider than the home for quite some time.—Pittsburg Press.

Motive Power Gives Out.

Jimmy owns a $1 watch which he bought six years ago. Recently it refused to run, so Jimmy took it to a jeweler. He made a post mortem examination and when Jimmy called for the verdict next day his watch was handed to him with a piece of crepe tied to its stem.

"No hope!" was the mournful verdict of the jeweler. "Might as well send it to Davy Jones' locker."

"What's the matter?" asked Jimmy, alarmed.

"Found a cockroach inside."

"That's what plugged up the works, eh?"

"No," replied the jeweler. "The cockroach had been keeping the thing going, but he died at his post."

WHAT YOUR NEIGHBORS SAY
ABOUT TANLAC COUNTS MOSTReal Triumphs of National Tonic Came Through Words of Users
Which Are the Actual Tests of True Merit.

"It is what the neighbors say that counts most," said a prominent business man, recently in regard to Tanlac, the National Tonic which is attracting such wide-spread attention throughout the country.

Tanlac is well advertised, it is true, but such a record breaking demand could not be brought about by advertising alone. One bottle of Tanlac is sold in a neighborhood through advertising, but ten more are sold in that community after the first bottle produces results; and that's where Tanlac scores.

People are always willing to talk about their ailments, but they are more than willing to tell others of the medicine that helps them. It's something they couldn't keep to themselves if they tried, for the impulse to sympathize with neighbors and want to help them is one of the strongest, as well as one of the biggest things in human nature.

Who is there that has been relieved of the pangs of illness by Tanlac that would not tell his suffering neighbor? If you were one of those who had been relieved, would you keep it a secret?

Tanlac's best friends are those who have used it. They are men and women who consider it their duty, a duty they dare not shirk, to tell others of Tanlac.

Tanlac is being introduced and explained in Hartford at the Ohio County Drug Co.

Tanlac may be obtained in the following nearby towns: Beaver Dam, Z. Wilbur Mitchell; Centertown, L. C. Morton & Son; McHenry, Williams Coal Co.; Ceralvo, C. R. ONE OF NATURE'S PICTURES.

A Green Heron and Something Else No
Artist Could Paint.

I saw a simple picture of nature's painting once, which has returned to my memory again and again, and if it could be put on a canvas or fastened in a poem it would forever remain a masterpiece of art. And yet it was nothing but a green heron standing in the swift shallow current of a brook with the diamond bright wavelets breaking around its slender legs and a tuft of water grass trembling beside it. I was lying, idly enough, at full length on the brook's bank, so that beyond the bird, as I gazed, opened a fairy-like landscape, over which a gentle breeze was blowing with an effect wholly indescribable, shaking tall flags and tossing the dragon flies about in the sunshine. The whole effect was cooling and tranquilizing, with a subtle hint in it of a land somewhere just out of reach where one might dream the lotos dream forever.

Now, a good artist might easily have painted the little scene so far as painting usually goes, but it would have required such genius as is yet to be born to imprison in the sketch the hint of what seemed to lie just beyond the dreamy horizon. None but the most masterful genius would have been able to keep up to the sweet, quiet key of the coloring and yet be satisfied with the tender, wavering outlines and the soft, transparent shadows. The liquid tones of sound and color in the brook came so harmoniously to my senses, along with the motion of swaying flags and bubble headed waves, that the graceful bird, seen through half closed eyes, appeared to be a half fanciful embodiment of the spirit of calm delight, knee deep in some tide of enchantment or romance.—Maurice Thompson.

CARE WITH ELECTRICITY.

Extreme Caution Should Be Used In Handling All Fixtures.

"Electricians think nothing of touching with their fingers a 110 volt or 220 volt A. C. or D. C. switch to ascertain whether it is alive or not," says the Electrical Experimenter. "On the other hand it is claimed in a number of authentic cases on record that 110 volts, such as is used for ordinary lighting circuits, has sufficed to produce fatal results to a human being. Therefore it behooves every one to take the utmost care in handling electrical apparatus of any nature, no matter whether it is a small toaster or an innocent looking electric light switch of the push button variety.

"A good point to keep in mind would be to exercise extreme caution in manipulating all lamp sockets or switches during or directly after a severe storm, which may have blown down high voltage wires so as to cause them to drop across low tension wires supplying house circuits.

"Those having electric lights in their homes should always exercise the greatest care in manipulating any of the devices connected to such service. In the bathroom especially they should never touch the socket or wall switch while standing in the bathtub or with wet feet on a floor where there is any water, as these accidents happen at the most unexpected moment. They are practically immune from danger if they would just take the trouble to see that they always stand on a dry floor."

Always the Unknown.

Permit me to introduce myself. You have been on intimate terms with me for some time.

And yet you do not know me. You have talked with me on long walks and in the still watches of the night. You have flattered me and enjoyed me and pleaded with me and condoned me. And yet you do not know me.

The worst of this is that you will never know me. You will always go on believing that you do. This is your fate.

I am the unknowable. I am the one you live with and of whom you are destined, so long as you live, to be in absolute ignorance.

I am the one you think you are!—Life.

LEGAL ROMANCES.

Court Cases Where the Unexpected
Came as a Climax.

FACTS THAT RIVAL FICTION.

Some Trials In Which the Heavy Hand of the Law Was Curiously Turned
Aside From Inflicting Punishment
Upon an Innocent Person.

As a rule, law proceedings are dry affairs, but there have been some wherein the facts rivaled the most romantic fiction.

About the middle of the eighteenth century a vessel arrived one day at an English port from India. The captain reported that, while sailing through the Indian ocean, one of his passengers, a man of wealth and rank, had been murdered and then accused one of his passengers, a young brother of the murdered man, of the crime.

Though protesting his innocence, the accused was brought to trial. When put upon the stand the captain swore that about midnight on the evening of the murder, which was Christmas eve, he had seen the accused leave his own cabin, creep stealthily along the deck to the cabin of his brother and there enter. Shortly after, the captain testified, he heard the sounds of a struggle and then saw the accused emerge and return to his cabin. On going to the cabin of the elder brother he found him dead from strangulation. Under cross examination the captain said that he, himself, was concealed from the view of the accused man by the deep shadow cast by the sail in the light of a full moon, while the accused had been compelled to creep in the light for quite a distance, which rendered him perfectly recognizable. The second mate, who testified that he was with the captain, swore to the same facts.

There was no other evidence except the denial of the accused, who, it was shown, would profit largely by his brother's death. Just as the case was about to be given to the jury a man in the courtroom asked permission to put a single question to the captain.

"Now," said the stranger when the captain had returned to the stand, "if you recognized the prisoner in the light of a full moon on last Christmas eve, how do you, who know something of astronomy, account for the fact that on last Christmas eve there occurred a total eclipse of the sun?"

Trapped thus in his own circumstantial lies, the captain broke down and confessed that he and the mate had been hired to commit the murder by a third relative, who, upon the death of the younger brother, would have fallen heir to both their estates.

In a celebrated court martial case which came up for trial in 1871 a young lieutenant was accused of having forged another man's name to a promissory note and obtained money on it. The accusing witness produced the note in question, which was written upon a sheet of blue ruled foolscap paper and bore a date of the year 1867.

Everything had gone against the defendant and the case was about to go to the jury, when the sweetheart of the lieutenant, who was sitting beside him at the trial, happened to pick up the note and hold it in such a way that a strong light from the window shone through the paper. There, to her joy, she read the watermark, "Swampscott Mills, 1869." In other words, the note purported to have been written on the paper two years before the paper had been manufactured.

The year 1869 figures in another strange lawsuit. In the year 1880 certain persons in New Mexico claimed a huge tract of hundreds of thousands of acres as the heirs of one Bartolomeo Baca, to whom, they alleged, the Spanish government had, in 1817, made a grant. They exhibited the deed of grant and sued to obtain possession. On the trial the deed of grant stood every test of genuineness, and a decree was entered awarding the immense property to the claimants.

Some months afterward as John Waldron, the attorney for the Santa Fe railroad, who had been the principal loser, was reading a paper his eye rested on this little paragraph, "Aniline ink was invented in 1869 in Germany." As he read the thought flashed through his mind, "What kind of ink was the Baca land grant written in?" By permission of the court he had a chemist make a quiet test of the ink of the grant, and when he read the chemist's report he cabled to a certain German chemist in Europe. Six months after, when the case was, by permission of the court, reopened on account of newly discovered evidence, a white bearded stranger took the stand and in ten minutes sent the case of the Baca heirs out of court and the heirs themselves into the penitentiary by swearing that he was the inventor of aniline ink, that the invention was made in 1869, and that the ink in which the Bartolomeo Baca grant, dated 1817, was written, was aniline.—Case and Comment.

What would he give for the coffee you serve?

Like a million other women, you can serve coffee that he would give most anything to have—coffee which starts the day "right" for all.

Everyone loves the rich flavor of Arbuckles' Coffee. Of all the coffees in America today, it is by far the most popular!

One woman says: "My husband used to swallow his coffee and hurry off. Now we have Arbuckles' and you'd think it was Sunday the way he lingers over his breakfast."

Until you try Arbuckles' you will never know what a difference good coffee can make in your home.

Today there are whole towns where Arbuckles is practically the only coffee used. In one State, alone, in a year, four pounds of Arbuckles' Coffee was used for every man, woman and child in the State—four times as many pounds of coffee as the population of the State! Arbuckle Bros., New York.

A great prosperity envelops the United States. As never before in the history of the land, legitimate enterprise is assured of rich rewards. There are no breadlines; there is no unemployment; the historic "dinner pail" is full to overflowing, and whether in field or factory, home or store, hope has been given strength and drive. It is only bad business that has been hurt; good business has been put upon the high road.

They shame America and deny plain facts who talk of "war profits." The new prosperity is bedrocked in new capacities. Manufactured products have increased $9,400,000,000 in the four years of Woodrow Wilson. Less than one per cent of this vast total is contributed by munitions exports.

During the two years of war, our foreign trade balance—the excess of exports over imports—has increased $2,130,000,000.

The shining fact stands that our national wealth has increased $41,000,000,000 in three years. They say that this is "temporary prosperity;" we no more believe them than when they said prosperity was impossible.

The answer is not to be found save in the financial, economic and industrial reforms effected by Woodrow Wilson.

He has ended the rule of Special Privilege. Credit has been released, usury forbidden, exploitation checked and initiative encouraged. It is the creative genius of the American people that has been recovered. The leg chains have been struck from opportunity. Courage has had the bit taken from its mouth.

The fear of panics is lifted.

You know present conditions. Contrast them with past conditions. Do you want to go back to breadlines, unemployment, wholesale panics, government by greed?

Do you want freedom to prosper as your energies merit, or shall prosperity be returned to the selfish control of the powerful few?

The fight on Woodrow Wilson is the fight of those who owned the government before Woodrow Wilson gave it back into your hands. It is the fight of great overlords of finance eager for a return to the feudal conditions that fed their lust for wealth and power.

Fight back. Defend a prosperity that means health and hope and strength and happiness for you, your children and your children's children.

FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS.

Gems For Which We Are Indebted to Rev. Edward Young.

Among the older English poets sentences and quotations from whom have passed into the very warp and woof of our daily speech, the first place, of course, belongs to Shakespeare. The second belongs to Pope and the third not to Milton or Dryden, but to the Rev. Edward Young, whose "Night Thoughts" lay on the reading tables of the pious ancestors of those of us who had them. Young has been called "Pope in woollen stockings." Perhaps he would be more accurately described as Pope in cassock and bands.

To him is due the possession by almost every one of the knowledge that "Procrastination is the thief of time," that "we take no note of time but from its loss," that we should "be wise to-day—its madness to defer," that "at thirty man suspects himself a fool, knows it at forty and reforms his plan," that none the less "a fool at forty is a fool indeed," that "all men think all things mortal but themselves," that "blessings brighter as they take their flight," that "man wants but little, not that little long" (echoed by Goldsmith), that "by night an atheist half believes a God," that "Death loves a shining mark," that "pygmies are pygmies still, though perched on Alps," that "all may do what has by man been done," that "the man that blushes is not quite a brute," that "too low they build who build beneath the stars," that "an undevout astronomer is mad," that "none think the great unhappy but the great," and that "fondness for fame is avarice of air."

"Insatiate archer, would not one suffice?" is a familiar query which he first propounded. The very first line of the first Night in which he achieved his funeral thoughts, "Tired nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep!" has often been repeated as Shakespeare's—no doubt by confusion with Macbeth's eulogy of the sleep he had murdered.—Phila. Ledger.

VASTNESS OF GREENLAND.

This Ice-Crowned Island is as Big as Mexico or Alaska. Greenland is the largest island in the world. Its total length from Cape Farewell, its southern extremity in 60 degrees north latitude, to Cape Morris Jesup, its northern extremity in 83 1/2 degrees north latitude, is in round numbers 1,500 miles, almost exactly the same as the length of the United States on the ninety-seventh meridian, from the mouth of the Rio Grande to where our northern boundary crosses the Red River of the North. The greatest width of Greenland is about the same as the distance from New York to St. Louis.

In regard to its area the figures of various authorities vary widely. It may be sufficient to say that it can be grouped in size with the United States east of the Mississippi, Alaska, Mexico, Colombia, Persia, Portuguese West Africa and Turkey in Asia.

Its interior is covered with a great sheet of ice rising to elevations of probably 10,000 feet in places and several thousand feet in thickness. The available ice free land is a strip of varying width along the coast, intersected by numerous deep fiords.

When one turns the pages of American arctic exploration Greenland is found more or less intimately associated during over sixty years with all American expeditions, except the Jeannette expedition.

Americans have lifted nearly all of its northwestern and northern coasts out of the arctic night and fog and have twice crossed its northern part. American names stud its coasts, and the name of an American marks its northern extremity, the most northern known land in the world.—Rear Admiral Peary in New York Times.

His Telephone Number.

"Confound it all!" cried a business man. "I've forgotten my new telephone number. I didn't write it down because that's an indication of weakness."

"What about forgetting the number?" said the other man. "Isn't that mental weakness too? Is it the number of your home telephone?"

"Yes."

"Then why not call up your wife and ask her what it is?"

And without the slightest hesitation the forgetful man called up the forgotten number and asked his amazed wife what it was.—Chicago News.

Handed It Back.

"Why don't you put your mind on it and get a good cook?" demanded Jones impatiently of his wife.

"Well," replied Mrs. Jones sweetly, "I guess it is because I don't know how. I never seemed to have a faculty for selecting people to live with."—Exchange.

GRAFT IN THE ORIENT.

An Incident That Illustrates the Way of the Far East.

I had had experience with corruptible Turkish officers, and one day when barrack conditions became unendurable I went to the officer commanding our division, an old Arab from Latakia who had been called from retirement at the time of the mobilization. He lived in a little tent near the mosque, where I found him squatting on the floor nodding drowsily over his comfortable pouch. As he was an officer of the old regime, I entered boldly, squatted beside him and told him my troubles. The answer came with an enormous shrug of the shoulders.

"You are serving the sultan. Hardship should be sweet."

"I should be more fit to serve him if I got more sleep and rest."

He waved a fat hand about the tent.

"Look at me! Here I am, an officer of rank and"—shooting a knowing look at me—"I have not even a nice blanket."

"A crime! A crime!" I interrupted. "To think of it, when I, a humble soldier, have dozens of them at home! I should be honored if you would allow me—" My voice trailed off suggestively.

"How could you get one?" he asked. "Oh, I have friends here in Saffet, but I must be able to sleep in a nice place."

"Of course. Certainly. What would you suggest?"

"That hotel kept by the Jewish willow might do," I replied.

More amenities were exchanged, the upshot of which was that my four friends and I were given permission to sleep at the inn—a humble place, but infinitely better than the mosque. It was all perfectly simple.—Alexander Aaronsohn in Atlantic Monthly.

ORIGIN OF OUR HOLIDAYS.

A Woman's Influence in Nationalizing Thanksgiving.

First and last enough sentiment has been expended upon American politics to equip a regiment of poets laureate. Distinctly American holidays are full of it. Fourth of July, of course, made itself. The 22d of February became one by common consent. It had its origin in a convivial supper in a New York tavern in 1783, when a company met to listen to an original ode and drink innumerable toasts. Enthusiasm survived the wine, and as the gentlemen went gayly and unsteadily home they swore to meet again on future anniversaries. Regarded at first as a purely party custom, it broadened beyond Federal circles to take in all Americans. Jefferson's followers attempted a similar observance in his honor, but he countered with another bit of sentiment, refusing to divulge the date, on the ground that only the birthday of the nation should be so treated.

Thanksgiving was sectional and religious as well as political, and sentiment graced it in plenty. One of the customs that lingered in good old New England households until the middle of the last century was to lay five grains of corn upon the plate of every person at table in memory of a day in early colonial history when five ships came sailing into harbor just in time to chase away the specter of famine.

It was Washington who appointed the first national day of thanksgiving at the instance of congress, after the adoption of the constitution. For many years, however, annual observance of the day remained a matter of state action, virtually confined to New England. Like the 22d of February, it became a national custom only gradually; unlike the 22d of February, it spread largely through the influence of a woman, Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale, who advocated it for twenty years in the editorial columns of Godey's Lady Book.—Helen Nicolay in Century.

KAFFIRS AND HEADGEAR.

How the Natives of South Africa First Came to Wear Hats.

It was a Boer, Andries de Villiers by name, who introduced head coverings to the South African natives.

Andries was a man of ideas, and when one morning many years ago he saw in Port Elizabeth a consignment of damaged hats offered for sale for a mere song he bought them on speculation.

The hats were principally of the straw and derby variety. Andries loaded them into his wagon and started for Kaffrland, where hats were totally unknown. When he arrived in Tembuland he unloaded the stock, opened the kegs of liquor, without which no trade could be done in those days, and started business.

The natives did not take kindly to the headgear. They wanted blankets and beads and looking glasses and grog. They refused to have anything to do with hats and would not buy them no matter how low the price.

Then another of the bright ideas for which he was famous occurred to Andries. He refused to sell anything unless a hat was purchased also.

When a Kaffir buys anything he is going to make use of it, and the unfortunate Kaffirs therefore donned the headgear and returned to their kraals. Fashion rules the world. It is the same in Africa as elsewhere, and when the stay at home saw their relatives and friends wearing this strange covering their desire to do the same was excited, and they paid Andries a visit, and he unloaded the remainder of his stock on them at a price which brought him a large profit on the original investment.

Get In Debt.

Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., the great Chicago meat packing company, has the idea that being in debt is the surest way to succeed. He urges every one of his 35,000 employees to get into debt and to keep in debt, and he has organized a system to encourage them in this and to show them how to do it profitably.

"Get in debt for something of intrinsic value and stay in debt," he says. "As soon as you get one thing paid up, buy something else and get in debt again. Stay in debt—never get out."—American Magazine.

Beauty.

Beauty is as real a need to the civilized man as anything else. Any one who doubts this should reflect what money and thought he and his expend on beauty as he sees it in one form or another, in their houses, furniture, clothes, gardens and what not; how every one, rich and poor, spends according to his means for these things and insists on having them as good and handsome as he can afford and understand.—New York Times.

Bracelets and Lunatics.

Bracelets have been worn from time immemorial, but few wearers of the golden bands of the present day know that they were once used to distinguish the insane. Before lunatics were confined to asylums they wore an armband for distinction.

Very Capable.

Mrs. Newlywed—I want a cook, but she must be capable. Head of Employment Agency—Madam, I have several on my books capable of anything.

Hard Fists.

Salt, water and turpentine form a solution which is often used by boxers to harden their hands.

SAYS HUGHES' ELECTION RUIN OF PROGRESSIVES

Jesse R. Eskridge Former Candidate For Lieutenant Governor, Gives Statement.

Characterizing Charles E. Hughes as an artful dodger and declaring that his election would be a deadly blow to Progressive principles, Jesse R. Eskridge, of Hardinsburg, Progressive candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1915, in an interview Saturday said he will do his utmost to get Progressives in the Fourth district and the State to join him in support of Wilson.

"Those who were and still are Progressives because of principle should support Wilson, and not Hughes, merely because they were Roosevelt Republicans," the statement issued by Mr. Eskridge said, "as President Wilson has proved himself to be thoroughly Progressive in his views, and the legislation enacted during his Administration has been along progressive lines."

Mr. Eskridge was a delegate from the Fourth district to the Progressive Conventions in 1912 and 1916, and in announcing for President Wilson he said, "the same reasons which existed for Progressive opposition to Taft in 1912 should prompt a voter of independent mind to oppose Hughes in 1916." Referring to the manner in which Hughes was given the Republican nomination this year Mr. Eskridge said he was the choice of a handful of politicians and that he is, therefore, "a stand-pat candidate out and out, declining to state his views before the nomination, and dodging all important issues since being nominated." He said that as the Progressive party has no candidate for President and John M. Parker, candidate for Vice President, is supporting President Wilson, it behooves all Progressives to do likewise.

Mr. Eskridge's statement was sent to Democratic State headquarters with a request that it be used to the best interest of President Wilson.

$5,000 TRAVELS SAFELY IN A TORN ENVELOPE

Washington, Oct. 23.—Five thousand dollars in bonds, good as cash and readily negotiable, poorly concealed in a much torn envelope which revealed their value to scores of employees, traveled safely in the ordinary letter mail from Rusk, Tex., to the Post-office Department, where they were delivered to the Postal Savings director.

Officials thought it a fine testimonial to the honesty of postal employees. The bonds came as security for postal deposits from a national bank, which was requested, however, to register such valuable mail in the future.

FEW VERY TRUE WORDS IN BEHALF OF DRINKER

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 18.—A tribute to the class of men who become drunkards was paid by Ira Landrith, Prohibition candidate for Vice President, in an address to young women at Ward-Belmont College in Nashville, Tenn.

"Don't judge the drunkard too harshly," Landrith said. "For one thing, he never is a tightwad. He who worships the eagle on the dollar seldom worships the bottle on the shelf.

"The mean, miserly, narrow skinflint doesn't get drunk. The man who becomes a drunkard likes men; the miser has no social instinct. Prohibition of the liquor traffic will save to us a generation of men who would be a blessing to their time."

HOPEWELL.

Oct. 23.—Bro. Rayburn preached for us Saturday night and Sunday, it being his first time for this conference year.

Mrs. Albin Shull and Miss Lovel, of White county, Ill., are visiting Mrs. Shull's mother and other relatives and friends here.

Miss Vera Miller, who is teaching near the Point, came home last Saturday. The lady she is boarding with came with her. They returned Sunday.

We had a good rain last week and a big frost Saturday night. Corn gathering will open up soon, but hope it will not prevent any one from voting for Wilson.

Mrs. W. C. Overton died last Thursday very suddenly of paralysis and asthma. She was buried at Hopewell cemetery Friday. Bro. Rayburn conducted religious services. She was born in Breckenridge county in 1858, joined the Baptist church when quite young and lived a consistent member of that church. She was married to Mr. Overton about 23 years ago. Three children were born to that union. One died in infancy. The father and two sons—Walter and Charley—are left to mourn their loss.

MADISONVILLE GROCER ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 21.—Charles Rock, about forty years of age, a retired grocer of this place, was found dead in bed this morning at 10 o'clock with a bullet hole through his head and a revolver at his side.

He had been dead for some time when discovered. No message was left explaining the supposed suicide, but grief over the death of his mother several months ago is thought to have been the reason. His watch and a large sum of money were found in his clothing near the bed.

In spite of the gravity of the situation, a woman in full mourning is a little funny.

EQUITY NEWS.

(By the Equity Man.)

The Equity Man is back in grand old Ohio county, to remain until after the election—Nov. 7th, I believe. Now, please, I want you Equity people to use me to the very best advantage. The only date I have for this week is Oak Hill schoolhouse, near Cromwell, Friday night, the 27th, beginning at 7 o'clock. Other appointments have been asked for, but no dates arranged as yet.

Remember you can reach me (S. R. Blanton) either at Hartford, at the hotel, or at Mr. James S. Cecil's. If you need me in your community, phone until you find me.

Let us have ten more locals by Nov. 4th, when the County Union meets at Fordsville.

Rev. Mr. Wheeler, one of our good Equity men, is moving to Hartford this week. We feel sure, however, that he will not lose interest in Equity and the country home, as he will continue to farm.

Let every Equity man get ready for the big meeting at Fordsville, Nov. 4th.

The Equity Man is receiving urgent calls from every direction—Union county and Muhlenberg county, Ky., and also from Indiana. Let us make the best use of the present here in Ohio county.

L. N. Robertson, manager of the Owensboro branch, American Co-operative Association, met with quite a serious accident on Monday, October 9th.

Brother Robertson was attending a meeting at Bennett schoolhouse, where he reorganized a local union, forgetting that he had been summoned to appear as a witness in an important case at court for that day. Of course Brother Robertson will always attend to Equity and co-operative work before attending to court cases. The result was, the court caught him over the telephone and gave him two hours to get back to Owensboro and while driving back at a considerable rate of speed and turning a short corner, the automobile turned over and Brother Robertson is now on crutches, suffering with a crushed foot and a sprained ankle, and considerable bruises all over.

Another one of our leaders, Mr. Weller, who was with Mr. Robertson in the car, sustained a broken arm. The car was not injured, which was at least one redeeming feature of the accident.

This just simply goes to show that Equity people will not even stop at broken arms, sprained ankles or bruised limbs, to work for the interests of the Kentucky growers. On Saturday, the 14th, Mr. Robertson was again out in the field, addressing the farmers although he had to make use of crutches. A little disfigured but still in the ring.

A little thing like that will never phase an Equity leader.

OLATON.

Oct. 23.—Oscar Bond was here last Thursday looking over his crosses. He has a fine lot here.

Miller & Hoover are loading logs here to ship to market.

After a badly needed rain the farmers are getting busy sowing wheat. Some are also stripping tobacco.

It looks like all tobacco growers ought to join the tobacco organization and deliver their tobacco in their own county and thereby save the freight to Owensboro, where they can have but little if any control of the market.

The stork left a 9-pound girl at Arthur Mitchell's last Thursday morning.

Rev. Ferrel, of McHenry, filled his regular appointments here Saturday and Sunday at the Baptist church.

Rev. F. M. Farris is on the sick list. Mrs. Wm. Keith is also ill.

Rev. Wilbur Hall has opened a confectionery store near the water mill on the west side of May and Oiler streets.

Mrs. Henry Stevens is gradually growing weaker and cannot last long unless there is a change for the better.

Good attendance at Sunday School here yesterday.

SPECIAL NOTICE in regard to OBITUARIES, RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT, &c.

The Hartford Herald has adopted a new rule in regard to Obituaries, Resolutions of Respect, Cards of Thanks, &c., whether written personally or for lodges, churches or individuals, and that is, we shall charge at the rate of five cents per line for all such articles, except obituary poetry, which will be one cent per word straight.

The amount, in cash or stamps, must accompany each article, or it will not be printed. Six words average a line in ordinary reading and every separate character or initial letter counts as a word. The heading and the signature both count one line each, even if they are only a word or two. All obituary poetry, straight through, one cent per word. This ruling applies to everybody alike, without any distinction.

Contributors please remember.

CONVICTED OF KILLING TWO YOUNG DAUGHTERS

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 21.—E. J. Fudge was convicted by a jury here to-day of murder in the first degree for slaying his two daughters, aged 14 and 11, respectively. He probably will be sentenced to be hanged. The prosecution contended that Fudge gave poison to one daughter and shot the other so that he might marry Bertie Munday, who is said to have objected to the children. She is held in jail without bail.

It is hard to be patient with some men as it is to borrow money from them.

DUNDEE.

Oct. 23.—Mr. Comba Nabors and Miss Amanda Coppage were married last Saturday night by our pastor, Rev. S. M. Baily, at the Methodist parsonage in the presence of a few friends. Mr. Nabors is one of our hustling young farmers. Miss Coppage is one of our best and most popular young ladies. They will make their home at Mr. Nabors' farm near here.

Mr. Virgil Renfrow is spending a few weeks in West Plains, Mo., visiting his kinfolks.

Miss Mollie Renfrow has returned from Denver, Col., where she spent two months with her brother, Mr. Ivan Renfrow.

Mr. Tom Spurrier, of Grayson county, is visiting his sister, Mrs. S. J. Weller, this week.

Mr. Robertson and wife, of Grayson Springs, are visiting Mrs. S. J. Weller at present.

Several from here attended the school fair at Fordsville last Saturday and report a big time.

Be fair with your enemies, if you can; but always be fair with your friends.

CLEAR RUN.

Oct. 23.—Mr. Clyde Funk and Miss Addie May Gaines, of Sunnydale, were united in marriage Thursday, the 19th.

Mr. James Ford, who has been confined with appendicitis, was moved from Hartford to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hoagland Saturday and is getting along as well as could be expected.

Several from this place are attending the series of meetings which is in progress at Washington, conducted by Rev. Harper, the pastor.

Mr. J. R. Weller met with a serious accident a few days ago. While enjoying a ride in an auto with a friend in Owensboro, the car upset and Mr. Weller escaped with a broken arm.

Mrs. C. T. Funk is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wade are the proud parents of a baby boy.

The singing convention will meet at this place next Sunday. A large crowd is expected.

Mr. Rosel Park, of Evansville, is visiting his home here.

Worth Careful Thought

Do you read the label to know whether your baking powder is made from cream of tartar or, on the other hand, from alum or phosphate?

Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, derived from grapes, and adds to the food only wholesome qualities.

Other baking powders contain alum or phosphate, both of mineral origin, and used as substitutes for cream of tartar because of their cheapness.

Never sacrifice quality and healthfulness for low price.
